BRIEF SUMMARY OF CURRICULUM INTENT

The intention is to develop the whole child to provide them with the knowledge, skills and attributes needed to protect and enhance their wellbeing. HPRS is committed to providing a high quality educational experience for all pupils. Our curriculum determines and underpins the whole ethos of our school which is that we want all pupils to achieve and to do well in all areas. At HPRS, our Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education (PSHE) and RSE (Relationships and Sex Education) is taught through both discreet and cross-curricular lessons but also underpins all activities, educational visits (if and when appropriate), form time and guest speakers/visitors. It is intended that we will offer a cohesive whole-school approach which enables our pupils to become healthy, independent and responsible members of society. Our staff ensure that the lessons and activities are accessible to all pupils, creating suitable resources to support everyone. Through lessons, pupils will learn how to stay safe and healthy, build and maintain successful relationships and become active citizens, responsibly participating in society around them. Work is carried out on ‘mind-set and attitudes’ to inspire all pupils to achieve and believe in themselves, creating active, confident members of the community. Lessons will provide pupils with the knowledge they need to stay safe and to know when and how they can ask for help.

How SMSC and British Values are delivered in this subject

SMSC and British Values underpin all teaching and learning in PHSE. They are taught discreetly in lessons based on British Values and through the delivery of other key skills and topics. Please see the EC covering British Values document for a full description of how SMSC and British Values are covered through our scheme of work.
